JPC 2019 International Course on Conservation of Japanese Paper
DATES: 9 - 27 September 2019

PLACE: Tokyo, Japan

ORGANIZATION
TOBUNKEN - Tokyo National Research Institute for Cultural Properties
ICCROM - International Centre for the Study of the Preservation and Restoration of Cultural Property

THE COURSE
Japanese paper is internationally recognised as a superior conservation material. It is also the support material used in Japanese artworks found in many collections worldwide. However, outside of Japan, it is difficult to gain in-depth, holistic knowledge and experience in traditional conservation techniques dealing with Japanese paper.

The JPC course offers a unique opportunity for overseas professionals to bridge this gap. In addition, it provide opportunities to create links between Japanese and Western paper conservation, and to encourage the application of Japanese conservation approaches, materials and techniques to non-Japanese cultural heritages.

COURSE METHODOLOGY
The course is an intensive programme combining theory and practice, through lectures, practical workshops in Tokyo, and a study tour in different Japanese cities to visit traditional papermaking masters and mounting studios.

PARTICIPANTS
The course is open to 10 conservators-restorers, curators, keepers and other professionals actively involved in the preservation of and enhancing access to cultural heritage. At least three years of working experience is required. Preference will be given to candidates also involved in training activities or who are heads of conservation teams.

Art historians, conservation scientists, traditional paper-mounting and conservation specialists from leading institutions in Japan.
